

Ever Wondered How To Be An Angel Investor?

You've got to give the state government credit for trying to boost business formation. The latest is an Angel Capital Resource Center on the Department of Financial Institutions Web site (www.wisconsinangelcapital.org). The portal provides entrepreneurs and angel investors a directory of resources that can assist them in forming and locating angel networks. There's also a link to the Act 255 Web site where the angel investing tax credit is explained. AS DFI Secretary

Lorrie Keating Heinemann explains, "Using this tool, we hope to foster investments in entrepreneurial activity that will create high-wage jobs in certified Wisconsin companies.

Source: Corporate Report Wisconsin – November 2004